Pembroke Pines
Neighborhood

Pembroke Pines is one of the largest cities in Broward County, perfectly situated in South Florida between Miami-Dade and Palm Beach Counties. Bordered by the Everglades to the west, I-75 in the middle and Florida's Turnpike to the east, Pembroke Pines has easy accessibility to primary highways and interstates, key tourist attractions, employment centers, entertainment venues, parks, golf courses, restaurants, schools and retail/commercial destinations. In late January 1960, the Village of Pembroke Pines, which had began as an agricultural land occupied by dairy farms after World War II, became a city. In 1980, property from Flamingo Road to U.S. 27 was incorporated into Pembroke Pines, doubling the size of the city. This expansion included the property that is currently C.B. Smith Park as well as what was once the Hollywood Sportatorium and the Miami-Hollywood Motorsports Park.

The city's rapid population growth in the mid- to late 1990s was part of the effect of Hurricane Andrew in 1992. The resulting boom ranked the City of Pembroke Pines third in a list of "Fastest Growing Cities" in the United States in 1999. Decades later it continues its steady growth with the launch of Pembroke Pines City Center as a master planned mixed-use community within the City of Pembroke Pines, Florida.

Just minutes from beautiful beaches, international airports and deep-water ports, the City was named "one of the best cities to live in America," and is home to over 160,000 residents. Its 28 superior parks and lush landscaping throughout neighborhoods and public places enhance the City's natural beauty and South Florida charm.
